DETAILED ACTION

1. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on July 8th, 2006, prosecution is now reopened

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 8-33 are allowed.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

- a. Applicant discloses an invention relates to a method of encouraging distribution, registration, and purchase of freely copyable software and other digital information.

Applicant's invention applies to software as well as other information which can be repeatedly copied with little loss of fidelity, and which is expressed via a hardware- or software- programmable apparatus, such as a computer or a digital audio tape player. Applicant's invention is novel and innovative in the sense that it disabling selected features of the file (using encryption, compression, or other access denial), distributing the file with some enabled features as an inducement to new users, and offering to enable more features when a new user attempts to use a disabled feature. A licensing system then receives a request from the user's system, identifying a specific operating context and one or more features desired by the corresponding user. The related prior art fail to teach or suggest the invention as claimed by the Applicant.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue
